

YOUR MEMBERSHIP DOLLARS AT WORK

These are just some of the many ways the Seminole Nation Museum uses your membership contributions...

$25 purchases one book for our ever-growing research library.

$50 purchases five archival boxes for storing and preserving historic photographs.

$100 funds one curatorial or archival workshop for a museum staff member.

$250 funds the framing and matting of one historical print, document or image for exhibition.

$500 funds one certified teaching artist for educational and community presentations.

$1,000 funds the acquisition of one small, original artwork or cultural artifact.

$2,500 funds the overall design and development of one permanent exhibit.

$5,000 purchases one temporary traveling exhibit of regional or national scale.

$10,000 purchases a major artwork for the museum's permanent collection.

$10,000+ Donations larger than $10,000 contribute to the Seminole Nation Museum's Permanent Endowment Fund. With your generous support, long-term endowment dollars underwrite current plans for future building expansion and improvements, including increased public spaces; enhanced, modern methods of artifact preservation; and increased professional staffing.

Annually, membership dollars fund a myriad of services and programs for the Museum and the Wewoka community. Your contributions support a range of activities, many of which include:

PRESERVATION

An on-going effort of the Museum is the care and preservation of its thousands of artifacts, photographs and artworks. Without proper storage and maintenance, these important collections would not last for other generations to enjoy.

EDUCATION

One of the most important uses of membership dollars is the support of educational outreach programs. Museum staff travel across Oklahoma and the Southeast to bring creative, educational and fun programming to students K-12. Story-telling, cultural activities and crafts are just a few of the methods the Museum uses to bring to life the people and culture of our area.

ACQUISITION

Additions to the Museum's Permanent Collection of artworks and artifacts are funded annually through donor support, including such items as this hand-carved medallion by artist Dan Townsend.

EXHIBITION

Membership dollars fund special programs and exhibits, such as the Smithsonian national traveling exhibit, Key Ingredients, as well as shows celebrating the work of local and regional artists.

RESTORATION

In conjunction with grant funds provided through national foundations and other private sources, membership dollars make a significant impact in the restoration, renovation and maintenance of the Museum's historic home - the original Wewoka Community Center. Since 2007, over $500,000 has been raised to repair and up-grade the Museum building in pursuit of our goal to preserve the historic work of the WPA while providing an effective, modern environment in which to share the story of Wewoka and the Seminole Nation of Oklahoma.
